

A List of the Vills and Freeholders of Derbyshire, 1633.

COMMUNICATED BY S. O. ADDY, M.A.

THE following list has been transcribed from a MS. in the possession of Mr. G. A. Cubley, of Sheffield, who has kindly allowed it to be printed. The MS., which is of small quarto size, is written on paper bound in a parchment wrapper. It is evidently a draft, and is written in a good clerical hand, with erasures and additions by a more dashing but much more illegible writer. The additions are distinguished by being printed in italics.

It will be noticed that the list does not include the town of Derby. I conjecture that it was made for some legal purpose, and that this town fell under a different assessment. Only one freeholder, "Arthur Mower," is given under the head of Chesterfield.

The abbreviated words alloc, brē, p'cator, etc., written in the margin, present some difficulty. The former may be allocationis breve, meaning a writ or certificate of excuse, and I conjecture, with considerable diffidence, that the latter may be procurator. If we take this document as a jury list, as probably it is, the words written in the margin become intelligible. Moreover, the absence of the names of peers, etc., is accounted for. I have expanded mil' terr' whenever it occurs into militaris terra, that is land held by knight-service.

Freeholders, or free tenants (libere tenentes), were those who held portions of the demesne lands, as opposed to land held in villenage. Those who are interested in the ancient tenures of English land, whether from an antiquarian or an economic point of view, should consult Mr. Seebohm's masterly treatise on The English Village Community (1883).

Such a list as this may be useful to the students of economic history, but it is sure to be acceptable to the family historian and genealogist.
